Regenerative Biomaterials is published by Oxford University Press in association with the Chinese Society for Biomaterials from 2014.

SCOPE OF THE JOURNAL
Regenerative Biomaterials, the official journal of Chinese Society for Biomaterials is a fully open access, peer-reviewed journal. This journal is online only and aims to provide an international platform for researchers to share new ideas and research results in the field of biomaterials, especially the biomaterials in regenerative medicine. With its broad scope from the fundamental science of biomaterials to their potential clinical applications, the journal publishes high quality reviews, original research articles and communications.

Submissions: Authors must submit their manuscripts through the REGBIO’s online submission system at http://rb.oxfordjournals.org/. Exclusive submission is required. There is no submission fee.
